0.1 Vector bundles

A vector bundle consists of a base manifold (a base space), and a real vector space at each point in the base manifold.

0.1.1 Example

For example we can have a base manifold of a circle, and have a 1-dimensional vector space at each point on the circle to create an infinitely extended cylinder.