Contents

0.1 Division rings

A divison ring is a ring where every non-zero element has a multiplicative inverse.

0.1.1 Example

The rational numbers are a divison ring.

0.1.2 Relationship between divison rings and fields

Fields (not yet introduced) are different from division rings only in that multiplication for a field must be commutative.